
Congressman Watkins M.Abbitt, who will be retiring at the close of this term of Congress, was honored with a retirement party given by his staff of workers.

Pictured above, front row from the left, are Miss Marjorie Woody, Congressman Abbitt, Mrs. Barbara Montgomery, and Miss Beth Johns (Mr. Abbitt's Subcommittee); in the back row from left to right are Thomas S. Foster (Mr. Abbitt's Subcommittee), W. Fred Fletcher and Ted Foreland.

Over ninety-one years of service in the Congress and in the Congressional office is represented by Miss Woody, Congressman Abbitt, Mrs. Montgomery and Mr. Fletcher.

Party Honors Abbitt

Representative Watkins M. Abbitt was honored with a "retirement party" by his staff on the evening of August 8 in the Rayburn House Office Building.

More than 100 members of Congress stopped by during the three-hour reception to pay their respects to the dean of the Virginia Congressional delegation who will be leaving Congress at the end of the year after nearly 25 years service.

Speaker of the House Carl Albert, Majority Leader Hale Boggs and Majority Whip Thomas P. O'Neill, Jr. as well as most committee chairmen joined in recognition of Abbitt's long service and wished him well in his forthcoming retirement. Also sprinkled among the invited guests were former Congressmen, lobbyists and others with whom Abbitt has worked, both on the floor of the House and in the House Agriculture, House Administration and Ethics Committees.

The House Armed Services Committee room was attractively decorated, with emphasis on the Old Dominion and the Fourth Congressional District which the Appomattox native has served since his election on February 17,1948. Abbitt stands in the upper 10 percent of the 435 members of the House, on the basis of seniority and only a few members of the Senate have served longer. When he came to Washington, President Harry S. Truman was in his first term and both Richard Nixon and John F. Kennedy were freshmen members of the House and Lyndon B. Johnson had not yet gone to the Senate.

One of his staff members, Miss Marjorie A. Woody, of Petersburg, had worked several years for his predecessor, the late Patrick H. Drewry. Two others, W. Fred Fletcher, of Petersburg, and Mrs. Barbara Montgomery, of Appomattox have both served more than 20 years.
